Excerpt from The Life of Rev. Benjamin Woodbury: A Home Missionary; And the Need and Object of Home Missions

According to the teachings of the Messiah, the first missionary sent from heaven, the troublous times foretold the coming of great events. His time is short. Satan, the arch fiend, knows this, and in fury and madness he is striving among the nations, inciting them to vice, crime and bloodshed. His infernal hosts are concentrating to make a final attack upon Christendom. The cross and the crescent, the Turk and the Christian, Christ and Belial, are about to decide who rules the world. In the meantime while the forces of evil are concentrating, the churches are sending out skirmishers, in detached columns, without combination or mutual fellowship. There seems to be a wide breach between the Catholic and the Protestant. This is ominous! Is Christ the author of confusion and discord? Does not the Prince of Peace demand unity, harmony and fellowship among his followers? The churches can never conquer the world, the flesh, and the devil in detached columns. They must unite their forces. In one onward, united movement victory is assured. To secure this grand result, this unassuming volume is sent out to greet all whom it may meet, of every race. May a kind Providence give speed to its divine mission.
