From This Spot: A Practical and Theoretical Exploration of International Nonprofit Organizations

Madison J MacKenzie

This book is an exploration of international nonprofit organizations. Two approaches are taken to get familiar with the sector and what it is like to work in. A practical approach covers the trends, management, and finances of nonprofits. The theoretical approach delves into the intangibles that affect NGO's, their employees, and their overall impact. The book is brought together by an examination of some best practices in the international nonprofit sector with a variety of model organizations. The intended audiences are those who are not familiar with or are considering entering into the nonprofit sector workforce.
